- Research advice
- The best resources
- A recommendation for a great read
- Help with a search

“Google can bring you back 100,000 answers, a librarian can bring you back the right one.”

Neil Gaiman

Information is power!!!

Why are school libraries that have certified librarians important?

- Studies show that schools with strong library programs have a positive impact on achievement.
- They provide instruction in information literacy, digital literacy, and digital citizenship.
- They provide collaborative curriculum instruction with classroom teachers
- They develop a rich print and digital collection that is uniquely suited to their school population and needs
- They provide one on one assistance guiding students to the best resources, research skills, and books.
- They help students learn how to access, use and evaluate information
- They match students with books that appeal to a wide range of reading abilities and interests.
- They support the love of reading, which gives returns that cannot be measured
- They provide free information resources to all people

“Teaching children how to read is one thing, but if you want them to develop into higher level readers with the accompanying literacy skills then you need to engender a love of reading because then they will choose to read, rather than read because they have to.” Barbara Band
